

What is LEVI?

Longmont Ending Violence Initiative (LEVI) is a collaboration of over 25 agencies in Boulder County working to reduce domestic violence. LEVI started as an awareness project designed to enlist the entire community in recognizing and responding to domestic violence.

LEVI has an office in the Safety and Justice Building where we provide referrals and easy access to local resources for victims and their families. We also plan and coordinate prevention/education campaigns, conduct professional trainings, and create public information materials for the community.

Since LEVI represents a multi-agency collaborative response, it allows ALL community domestic violence agencies to provide central prevention/education services with one unified message.

Our process has strengthened agency strategies and streamlined valuable staff resources to more effectively impact domestic violence in our community.

How to help a victim of domestic violence:

1. Believe them and tell them you don't think they are "crazy."
2. Acknowledge the injustice. The violence perpetrated against them is not their fault. No one deserves to be abused.
3. Respect confidentiality. It is essential for trust and the victim's safety that all discussions remain strictly private.
4. Even if you disagree, allow them to make their own decisions about their lives.
5. Be there for them as many times as it takes to break free of the violence.
6. Help the victim create a workable safety plan.
7. Promote access to community resources. For non-emergency domestic violence resources in the Longmont area, please call LEVI at 303.774.4534. For bilingual 24-hour crisis line, shelter and counseling, please contact Safe Shelter of St. Vrain Valley at 303-772-4422. In an emergency, dial 9-1-1.

What LEVI DOES

In an effort to reduce domestic violence in our community, LEVI provides the following:

- Prevention/Education
Empower the community to end domestic violence through educational and informative presentations, trainings, awareness campaigns and public events.
- Access/Referrals
Identify resources and respond to gaps in order to provide access to crucial services for those seeking assistance in living a life free of abuse.
- Public Information
Heighten community awareness and action, as well as change public opinion and social behavior toward domestic violence.

If you suspect someone is an abuser:

1. Be direct and specific about what you see, think, and feel when they act in an abusive manner.
2. Explain that domestic violence is a crime and has consequences.
3. Be consistent. Don't accept excuses for the abuse. Instead, encourage them to take responsibility for their actions.
4. Encourage the abuser to seek resources to stop the abusive behaviors. Contact LEVI at 303.774.4534 for Longmont-area resources that can assist in their recovery.
5. Confronting an abuser can be dangerous for you and the victim so think carefully about your own safety concerns and help the victim with a safety plan before starting the conversation.
